THE BLUE LINE

BIO

The Blue Line is a rising indie pop duo based in Dallas, Texas, formed by brothers Michael and John, who share a lifelong passion for music. Michael is the vocalist, while John is the lead guitarist. Despite their differing musical tastes, they blend their creativity to create a unique sound that combines elements of pop-rap and alt-rock. The duo's name, "The Blue Line," is inspired by the DART rail line in Dallas, which holds special childhood memories for them. Drawing inspiration from artists like Post Malone, The Strokes, and John Frusciante, The Blue Line's music stands out for its organic, raw sound and deeply personal twist.

O B I I

Obii is an Afro-Italian, Afro-Euro jazz singer and songwriter whose career began in the UK as a session and background vocalist for artists such as Brandt Brauer Frick, Ebony Bones, Lee "Scratch" Perry, and Beaver Sheppard. Drawing from diverse influences—including jazz, Italian pop, R&B, old spirituals, and Africana sounds—Obii's music is a rich fusion of tradition and innovation.

Neha Gandhi of Sofar Sounds describes Obii as follows: "Sensuality oozes through Obii's genre-bending music, whimsical lyrics, and soulful voice. With tutelage in Italy and London, Obii possesses one of the most adaptable vocal styles across genres. Whether gliding over a trap beat with soulful melodies or channeling the blues with a guitar, his genre-agnostic approach reflects the depth of his childhood influences."

It took less than 4 seconds for Kelly Clarkson to turn her chair when Ren Galera began to sing on Season 16 of NBC's The Voice, marking one of the fastest chair turns in the show's history. This moment kicked off Ren's rise, drawing the attention of musical icons like John Legend, Adam Levine, Wisin, Alejandra Guzmán, Luis Fonsi, and Carlos Vives on both The Voice and La Voz.

Originally from Guadalajara, Mexico, Ren (formerly Karen Galera) now calls Dallas, TX home, where she works with The Creatives Factory's Production, Management, and Artist Development team. Singing since childhood, Ren's early roles in musical theater shaped her into a skilled vocalist and captivating stage performer. Drawing from both English and Spanish influences like Christina Aguilera, Becky G, Karol G, Ariana Grande, and Rihanna, Ren blends Pop, R&B, Latin, and Soul into a unique sound that sets her apart. With her versatile voice, natural talent, and stunning beauty, Ren has captivated audiences across TV, live performances, and social media. Ren Galera is a rising star destined for global success.
